When not attending functions, group participants will enjoy a string of luxurious amenities. 146 guest rooms, including 36 suites, deliver highly advanced technological and environmental features, and an array of innovative frequent-travel conveniences. Guest rooms feature outstanding city views, 400-thread-count, bed linens; built-in, floor-to-ceiling armoire with safe; five-fixture bathroom with dual vanities; flat-screen television built within the bathroom mirror; and a 42", LCD, flat-screen television. A state-of-the-art air transfer system circulates outside air into guest rooms at 60 cubic feet per minute. Reflecting the hotel's commitment to using eco-friendly, all-organic products and services, a 13,000-square-foot Wellness Center includes four oversized Spa treatment rooms featuring memory foam bed-tops; a complete Fitness Center with personal televisions; a sunlit movement studio offering floor-to-ceiling city views; and a spacious Aqua Lounge with saline-treated swimming pool and whirlpool.

M E E T

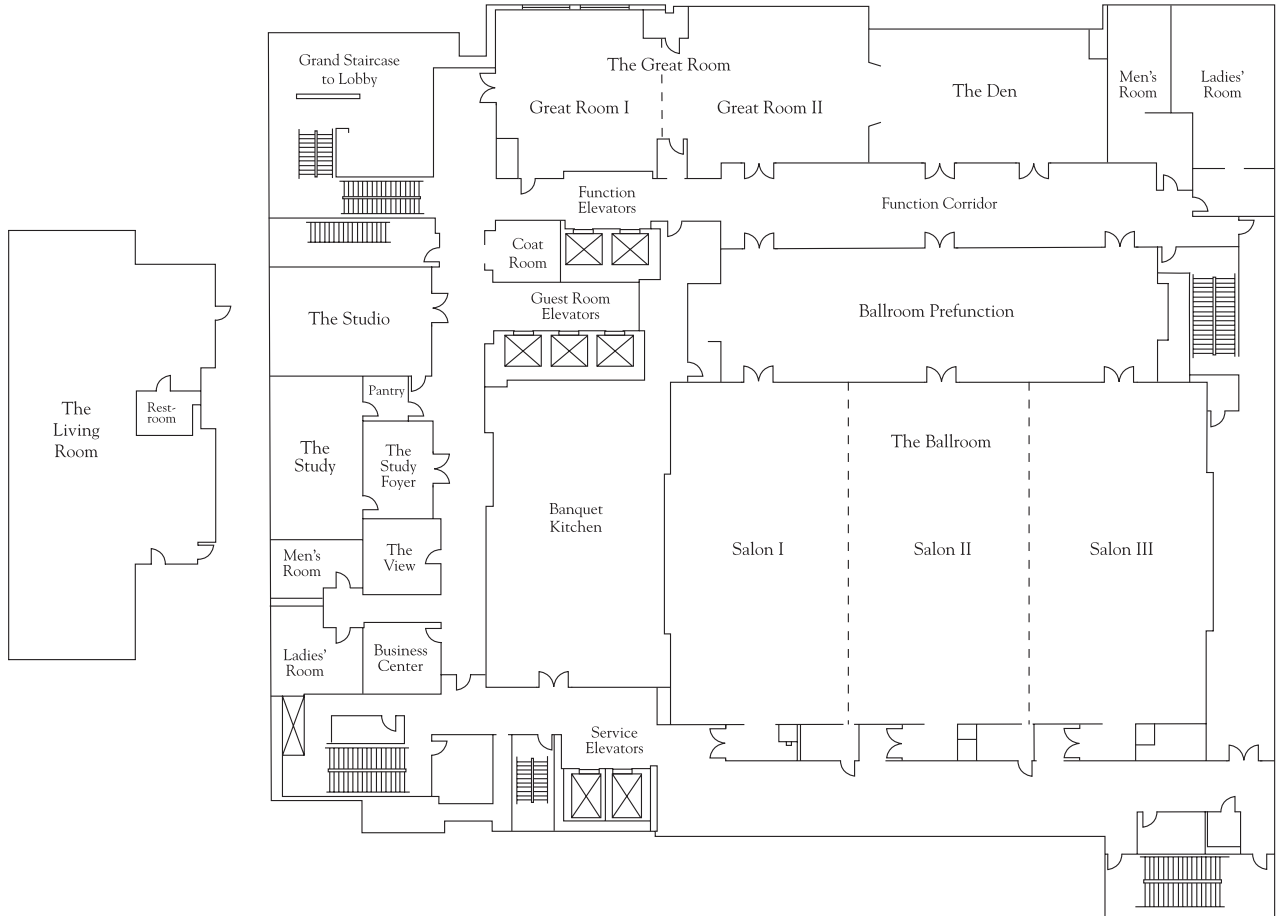

The first Ritz-Carlton hotel to be built to LEED® Gold standards is committed to respecting the environment through its mindful meeting and event programs. Nine function rooms, and state-of-the-industry meeting, wedding and technical services, feature recycled aluminum meeting room tables and locally-sustainable organic banquet menus offered for group and catering events. Sustainable woods, regional stone, and low-emitting design and construction components highlight the interior of the 18-story hotel. Green Meeting initiatives include a comprehensive recycling program, an in-house water purification and bottling system and the use of recycled leather and post-consumer waste paper throughout the hotel. Unique meeting and teambuilding options extend throughout the thriving young metropolis of Charlotte, as group participants can access nearby options such as the U.S. National Whitewater Center, motor sports programs and the innovative and interactive North Carolina Music Factory.
